And they picked the ugliest shades of most colours possible, so that's very disappointing. looked like a promising read for "job hunters and career changers". In the 2014 edition of the book, Bolles writes about how to adapt one's job search to the Internet age.[citation needed] The book recommends networking[4] to find "the person with the authority to hire you", rather than sending out resumes in bulk, shotgun fashion. This revised edition combines classic elements like the famed Flower Exercise with updated tips on social media and search tactics. What economists said that, and when? "The question was just a joke," he said. And it is indisputably the most popular. —Fast Company in today's challenging job market, as recent grads face a shifting economic landscape and seek work that pays and inspires, as workers are laid off mid-career, and as people search for an inspiring work-life change, the time-tested advice of What Color Is Your Parachute? 1974 edition Author Richard Nelson Bolles Subject Careers, job hunting Publisher Ten Speed Press Publication date 1970 ISBN 978-0-89815-944-1 OCLC 52840843 What Color Is Your Parachute? It is still arguably the best. Tone your ego down, Mr. Bolles. "[W]e need to unlearn the idea that what we have accomplished is our doing, and ours alone. Good luck getting out of that one. (By the way, this review of ranting is just like the way Richard Bolles wrote the last chapter in the book - describing all his thoughts on religion that go on forever!)—I am torn about recommending this. The author said it was free, but it costs $19.95 USD. And I thought it would actually be more than "which color do you like? It is God's Spirit breathing in us and through us that helps us do whatever we do, and so the singular first-person pronoun is never appropriate, but only the plural. Not "I accomplished this" but "WE accomplished this, God and I, working together..." (272)Oh god. You control nothing. God controls everything! You don't do anything "alone", some magical deity's spirit helps you!Next section; Bolles' personal thoughts on God (because that's relevant and people care about it)[Slome sort of relationship with God is a given for us, about which we have absolutely no choice." (274). While that may not be totally true. Bolles thinks Mission is dictated by God only.Then, we must insert some arrogance here:"Most of the leaders who have evolved creative job-hunting ideas were—from the beginning—people who firmly believed in God, and said so: Sidney Fine, Bernard Haldane, 10 other people, Ralph Matson, and of course myself." (268). It has been in print since 1970 and has been revised annually since 1975, sometimes substantially.[1][2] Bolles initially self-published the book on December 1, 1970, and it has been commercially published since November 1972 by Ten Speed Press in Berkeley, California. The main thing covered was that formula and a couple case studies.There was some other helpful miscellaneous information.Now, the bad things...(Get ready for religious rant)ALL THE RELIGIOUS CRAPstarted towards the end 1/3 of the book, it was so annoying.[Y]ou only have one life here on this Earth, and that life is yours (under God) to say how it will be spent, or not spent" (259)I thought the Finding Your Mission in Life chapter would be interesting or insightful, but no, it was just religious crap.
